

I feel excited and honoured to be part of the Marton School community. I have almost thirty years of teaching experience under my belt and still absolutely love it as much as I did all those years ago! I did a four years honours degree in Education, History and Philosophy and have worked in Northamptonshire, Oxfordshire and North Yorkshire.

We have a daughter who now lives and works in Newcastle after graduating from the university there and a son who is just about to go to Nottingham university to study law. In my spare time I enjoy playing squash, badminton and riding horses. My husband works for a local firm of solicitors and together we enjoy theatre trips and meeting with friends.
